

There's Always Money for a War

© 2015 Ian Robb and Shelley Posen SOCAN BMI

My friends, in this election season
Tories are the voice of reason
Budget cutting we hold dear
But friends, you never have to fear—

There's always money for a war

There's always money for a war

I am Stephen – hear me roar

From sea to sea and shore to shore

I can shoot; now watch me score

There's always money for a war.

We've cut the census; waste of dough
Who gives a damn? Who needs to know?
Science—why are we investing?
Let the Yanks do all our testing
Infrastructure costs the earth
We'll never get our money's worth
You bogus refugees beware
No more gold-plated Medicare. (But...)

There's always money for a war

There's always money for a war

I am Stephen – hear me roar

From sea to sea and shore to shore

I can shoot; now watch me score

There's always money for a war.

Climate change is just a craze
Prevention's costly anyways
Safer railways? Too expensive
Spending makes us apprehensive
No more cash for Canada Post
Home delivery—soon be toast
Put CBC up on the shelf
For culture must support itself. (But...)

There's always money for a war

There's always money for a war

I am Stephen – hear me roar

From sea to sea and shore to shore

I can shoot; now watch me score

There's always money for a war.

So vote for Stephen, and be sure
You'll pay less tax—unless you're poor
Perhaps you'll have to do without
But with us in power, have no doubt— (That...)

There's always money for a war

There's always money for a war

I am Stephen – hear me roar

From sea to sea and shore to shore

I can shoot; now watch me score

Diplomacy is such a bore

Peacekeepers? Us? Ha! Not anymore!

There's always money for a war